

Acne Scar Consultation Checklist

J Luxe Medical Aesthetics | Consultation-led planning for microneedling and acne-scar treatment

Use this checklist before booking or during consultation to make sure the plan matches your scar type, skin condition, and risk profile.

1. Before You Book

- Confirm your acne is currently under control. Active inflamed breakouts can change the safest treatment plan.
- Know the difference between acne marks and acne scars. Flat red or brown marks are not the same as depressed scars.
- Take clear photos in natural light so you can compare progress realistically over time.
- Be ready to discuss current skincare, recent treatments, and any past isotretinoin use.

2. Questions To Ask In Consultation

- What type of acne scars do I have: rolling, boxcar, ice pick, or mixed?
- Is microneedling suitable as a stand-alone treatment, or would combination treatment make more sense?
- How many sessions are likely to be needed before we assess meaningful progress?
- What downtime should I expect based on my skin tone, sensitivity, and scar pattern?
- What risks do I personally need to consider, including pigment change or delayed healing?

3. Suitability Check

- Tell the clinic if you have active cold sores, infection, eczema flare, rash, or broken skin in the treatment area.
- Tell the clinic if you are pregnant, immunosuppressed, diabetic, prone to keloids, or taking blood-thinning medication.
- If you have deeper or mixed scars, ask whether another treatment may be more appropriate than microneedling alone.
- If you have skin of colour, ask how pigment risk will be managed in the treatment protocol.

4. What A Realistic Plan Looks Like

- Expect a course, not a one-session cure.
- Expect gradual texture improvement rather than instant scar removal.
- Expect treatment review between sessions so the plan can be adjusted based on your skin response.
- Expect aftercare instructions that protect the skin barrier and reduce unnecessary irritation.

5. Red Flags

- Avoid anyone promising total acne-scar removal in one session.
- Avoid treatment without scar typing or a proper skin assessment.
- Avoid home-roller advice being presented as equal to medical microneedling.
- Avoid rushing into treatment if your skin is inflamed, infected, or highly sensitised.

6. Your Next Step

- Use this checklist in consultation and decide whether microneedling is the right first treatment for your scar pattern.
- Book through J Luxe Medical Aesthetics if you want a consultation-led acne-scar treatment plan in Hackney, London.
- Blog article: Does Microneedling Work for Acne Scars? Full Breakdown
- Site links: /pricing /facials /contact-us

Practical reminder: microneedling can improve some acne scars, but it is not the right treatment for every scar pattern and it should not be sold as a one-session cure.